

Celebrating DLR's scenic sights

This month, the East End's favourite railway celebrates 30 years.

SINCE its launch, the area has been completely transformed and is now a vibrant part of London, packed with popular attractions and interesting places to visit.

To celebrate its birthday, TfL is recommending 30 things to do or see along the route. So why not steal that front seat and explore some of the highlights?

Museum of London Docklands

Find out about the history of the River Thames and Docklands at this free, family-friendly museum. Until September 3, visitors can see artefacts spanning 8,000 years unearthed during the Crossrail project, from Mesolithic tools to items belonging to Roman Londinium.

Nearest station: West India Quay

kayaking, canoeing, paddle-boarding and windsurfing.

Nearest stations: Crosssharbour or Mudchute

National Maritime Museum and the Queen's House

The world's largest maritime museum, the National Maritime Museum, has ten free galleries, including two especially for youngsters. Don't miss the new Death in the Ice exhibition that explores the unsolved mystery of Sir John Franklin's fatal last journey to the Arctic.

Just a few metres away is the Queen's House (pictured top left). Designed by architect Inigo Jones in the 17th century, it is considered the first classical building in England and now houses an impressive art collection.

Nearest station: Cutty Sark for Maritime Greenwich

Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park

The former site of the 2012 Games (pictured bottom right) boasts impressive sports facilities and waterways as well as the ArcelorMittal Orbit slide.

This summer, visitors can explore the park's urban beach, which is complete with deep sand, children's paddling pool, beach bar, rides and attractions.

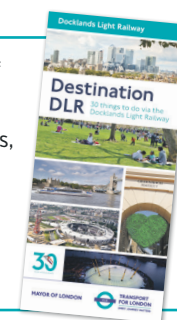

Entry is £2 for those aged three and above; under threes are free.

Stay cool when travelling and carry water

Mr Cool always takes a bottle of water with him when travelling. How cool can Mr Cool be? Very cool. Please carry water and stay hydrated.

Please help others off the train if they are ill; we can help more quickly on the platform.
