

Plan ahead for summer cycling festival

THE organisers of this summer's Prudential RideLondon cycling festival are holding drop-in sessions over the next few weeks so businesses and residents can find out more about the event, including information about associated road and bridge closures.

The event takes place on August 3 and 4 and features a public fun ride around the capital, two professional races, and a 100-mile ride for amateurs, which starts at Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park, going through Surrey, before finishing on The Mall.

Some roads will be closed in central London on the Saturday, followed by a large number of road and bridge closures across East, central and South-West London, and parts of Surrey on the Sunday. People are advised to plan ahead to avoid disruption and to make the most of the festival.

Sessions taking place this week:

- Surrey County Council – at Cobham Waitrose – tonight, 4pm-7pm
- Hammersmith & Fulham – in the Fulham Broadway Tube station shopping centre – tomorrow, 4pm-7pm
- Hackney – at the Cre8 Lifestyle Centre – Thursday, 4pm-7pm
- Kingston – at the YMCA Surbiton – Friday, 11am-3pm

The capital's roads: BBC documentary on tonight

TUNE in to BBC Two at 9pm this evening for the second episode of 'Route Masters – Running London's Roads' – a behind-the-scenes look at the city's roads and the people working to keep the capital moving.

The six-part series, by the makers of last year's hit documentary 'The Tube', takes an unprecedented look at how Transport for London (TfL) manages the 21million journeys people make across the capital each day by road and on foot.

Each programme looks at a different aspect of TfL's surface transport network, from the 8,500 buses running on more than 700 routes, to London's high-tech traffic and bus control centres.

Viewers will also get an insight into the investment needed to ensure the capital can handle the huge predicted growth in population, from just over eight million today to around ten million by 2030.
