

Heading to Charing Cross?

FROM today, Northern line customers heading to or from Charing Cross Tube station will be advised to use nearby Embankment station instead. This is while the main ticket hall at Charing Cross is closed for improvement work. Embankment is just a short walk away, via Villiers Street, and is clearly sign-posted. Work is expected to finish in July 2017.

Train your brain with a Late Debate

Go beyond the surface at London Transport Museum's second Late Debate.

GUESTS can take part in a range of debates and workshops, as well as enjoy a bar, music and the latest Designology exhibition on October 13.

The talks include:

Design on the Street

Industry insiders address the challenges faced when designing for urban environments.

The Big 'Surface' Issue

In this debate the participants become dragons in a den of leading industry experts, whose challenge is to identify and provide solutions to the big issues surrounding design today.

River Revival

The audience can take a journey along the River Thames at the Museum's Cubic cinema and have their say on projects taking place to encourage a river revival.

Mode Matters

London's public transport has come a long way, but what will the next 100 years look like on our roads? Quiz engineering, environmental and vehicle experts to find out.

The workshops include model-building where visitors can meet the architects behind some of London's innovative bus stations, explore architectural drawings, and have a go at model-making with 3D printing.

There will also be the chance to get creative in the 'Build a boat that floats' session, using recycled objects.

The workshops will also allow guests to explore the museum.

Designology and the Late Debate is part of the London Transport Museum and TfL Transported by Design season, supported by Exterior Media. The 18-month programme of events and exhibitions explore good design on the transport network and its role in the lives of the millions of customers who use it each day.

Other events include themed Friday Lates, Talks and Late Debates, as well as a pop-up design studio - where visitors can meet professional and student designers in residence and get involved in their work.
