

Travel for the Christmas show

PEOPLE heading to Olympia London for the Ideal Home Show at Christmas this week are advised to plan their travel ahead.

The nearest station is Kensington (Olympia) on the London Overground. Visitors can change to London Overground trains from the Central line at Shepherd's Bush, the District line (Wimbledon branch) at West Brompton, and the Bakerloo line at Willesden Junction.

However, due to planned engineering work all day on Sunday, there will be no London Overground service between Willesden Junction, Shepherd's Bush and Kensington (Olympia).

Also on Sunday, there will be no London Overground service between Clapham Junction and Kensington (Olympia) until around 9am. Passengers should travel to Earl's Court via the District or Piccadilly lines for alternative travel to Kensington (Olympia), or use bus 27 from Hammersmith or High Street Kensington.

A shuttle bus will run on weekdays between Earl's Court and Olympia London every seven or eight minutes and on Saturday and Sunday, District line trains will run every 15 to 20 minutes between Earl's Court and Kensington (Olympia).

The show opens today and runs until Sunday.

Plush prizes to be won

Metro Travel has teamed up with High Resolution Design to offer you the chance to win a giant 3D plush toy cushion.

FIVE lucky winners will be able to choose from three plush cushions that come in the shape of a Tube train, a red bus or a black taxi.

Plus there are prizes for ten runners up, who will each receive a 3D Tube train pencil case.

Making an ideal gift for transport lovers, the plush cushions cost from £24.99 and can be bought from the London Transport Museum shop in Covent Garden, Harrods and online at highresolutiondesign.co.uk.

in the subject line by 11pm tonight and include your preferred cushion.

Winners will be chosen at random.
