

Egg marks the spot this weekend

THERE are some 'eggcellent' Easter egg hunts and activities taking place in London over the long bank holiday weekend so hop on the Tube or a bus for an 'eggstravagant' day out.

Here's MetroTravel's 'eggciting' guide to what's on:

Gabriel's Wharf, South Bank
Good Friday to Easter Monday, 11am-6pm

While the grown-ups browse the market stalls, children are invited to search for hidden chocolatey treats at Gabriel's Wharf. On Saturday,

Easter-themed craft activities are available between 1pm- 4pm.

Nearest station: Waterloo

Epping Ongar Railway
Good Friday to Easter Monday

Guided by Bertie the bunny, children can hunt around the preserved railway for ten hidden eggs while exploring steam trains, buses and other modes of transport. Activities include face painting and a disco for the kids, while adults can enjoy a cup of tea.

Nearest station: Epping

The Artworks, Elephant and Castle
Easter Saturday, performances between 10am-3pm

Take a trip to Ellie's Castle – when the rain turns to chocolate, the audience is called upon to take part in an interactive performance to help Ellie solve the clues to get through her Easter journey.

Nearest station: Elephant & Castle

Jubilee Market, Covent Garden
Good Friday and Easter Sunday, 11am-3pm

Families are encouraged to make their way to Jubilee Market where they can search for hidden eggs before exchanging them with the Easter bunny for delicious nibbles. The nearby stalls are worth a look too.

Nearest station: Covent Garden

Kensington Roof Gardens
Easter Sunday, starts 11.45am

Situated 100ft above Kensington High Street, families can enjoy a relaxing day at The Roof

Gardens. Kids can roam the 1.5 acres for chocolate eggs while grown-ups sit back and relax with a cocktail from the bar.

Nearest station: High St. Kensington

Tadworth Court, Surrey
Easter Saturday, midday-4pm

The Children's Trust Easter Fair invites families to enjoy an Easter egg hunt, DJ and shopping market while at the same time raising money for the charity.

Nearest station: Tadworth

Museum fun

Special family events are being held at London Transport Museum this Easter.

Children can make puppets and create a video (suitable for six to 12-year-olds) at 'Animated London' and in 'Storytime – Lost in London' they can meet animals from the new All Aboard children's play zone and help them find their way across London (suitable for three to six-year-olds).
