

One-way flyover at weekends

HAMMERSMITH flyover will be closed to westbound traffic over the next two weekends while carriageway repairs are carried out.

The closures will run from 10.30pm on Fridays until 5am Monday mornings between April 17 to 20 and April 24 to 27. Affected traffic will be diverted via the road network beneath the flyover and along the A40 Western Avenue. The diversions will be clearly signed.

The restoration of the flyover has been under way since October 2013 and should be fully completed by the end of this summer. It forms part of TfL's £4bn

Road Modernisation Plan for London and is the biggest investment in the capital's roads for a generation. The Hammersmith repairs have been carefully designed so they are carried out in the shortest possible timeframe, helping to keep road disruption to a minimum. The closures have also been coordinated around other planned local work including construction on the East-West Cycle Superhighway.

The refurbishment has included strengthening many of the spans on the flyover and upgrading the central reservation. Much of the work has taken place overnight to reduce disruption to road users and residents.

Further weekend closures are expected in the coming months and will be confirmed well in advance.
